We Can Do This

Meet the Coats family. Lori and Randy live together with their daughter and five year old grandson on Daisy Hill in Borden, Indiana. On March 2, 2012, the Coats' home was one of many destroyed by the F4 tornado that ripped through 5 counties in Southern Indiana. To magnify the depth of the disaster, in the midst of all the tornadic fury, Randy lie in the critical care unit fighting for his life when Lori received the news that their home had been destroyed. Upon receiving the news, Lori's legs gave way and she fell to the floor. Thanks be to God for unknown faithful Christians who surrounded her with their uplifting arms and prayers. One of the faithful remained by her side through the night, refusing to abandon the Coats in their darkest hour of need.

NOW, LET US JOIN TOGETHER AND BUILD THE COATS FAMILY A HOME.
